Essential Criteria

Tip: there is "Help" text for each section of the application form

This is the criteria identified as key to the role.

They can include:

- A particular skill
- Experience or knowledge in a field relevant to the role
- A specific qualification relevant to the role

You will be required to provide evidence against each criteria and by using your own experience and achievements give examples to show that you meet these requirements.

Answer every question with as much detail as possible.

Don't assume we have any knowledge of the situation or context so avoid using acronyms and give full factual examples.

Desirable Criteria

This is the criteria identified as an advantage to the role but not crucial

These could be criteria that would make it easier or enhance your ability to do the job, but not essential because it you would be expected to acquire these skills once you're in employment.

For example: specific knowledge of a certain system used within the role would be beneficial, but it can also be learnt.

If you do meet any or all of the desirable criteria you should provide detailed examples showing how you meet these in the same way you would for the essential criteria.

Identify Your Best Examples

TIP: Read and re-read your answers to make sure they meet the required level!

Based on the questions think about your best examples, consider the responsibilities of the role and the essential & desirable criteria.

Your example should show you meet the essential criteria being asked for. The panel will look at how well your example fits this so be detailed in your responses.

Having several relevant examples to choose from will give you the flexibility to choose the best one.

You can use examples from your current job, previous work or personal life. You could also use examples from any voluntary or community work you may be involved in. Try to choose fairly recent examples as they tend to be easier to explain.

How do I explain an example?

Situation: Set the scene, what was the situation when you carried out the relevant activities.

Task: What was required of you, what was the activity or objective?

Action: What action did you take to complete the task, how did you do it and why? Remember to use “I” and not “We” as we want to know what you did and your impact on this particular activity.

Result: What was the outcome, provide details of your actions and why it was successful or if not how could you have made it a success.

The text boxes are limited to 300 words only, so make the best of the word allowance by ensuring your example provides as much evidence as possible to meet the criteria.

TIP: Research, there are loads of helpful guides available to help you create the best example you can!

Good Luck!
